TRADE AREA OVERVIEW

Location

Compton is home to 97,750 citizens as of the 2020 census. Known as the “Hub City” because of its unique position in almost the exact geographical center of Los Angeles County, Compton is strategically located along the Alameda Corridor, a main passageway for 25 percent of all U.S. waterborne international trade. It connects the Ports of Long Beach and Los Angeles to the nation’s major interstate highway system. Compton is rapidly emerging as a large industrial center in Los Angeles County for transit and distribution, business services, high technology, home and lifestyle products, metals, financial services, and textile manufacturing.

The City of Compton was incorporated on May 11th, 1888. Compton was the 7th City to be incorporated in Los Angeles County. The original town comprised 2,250 acres. Today Compton spans 10 square miles.

Five freeways outline the general boundaries of the City and provide superior access to destinations throughout the region. These include Interstate Highways Century (105), Harbor (110), Riverside (91), and Long Beach (710). The Long Beach and Los Angeles Ports are less than 20 minutes from downtown Compton, providing easy access to international destinations for customers, suppliers and leisure travelers. The Alameda Corridor, a passageway for 25 percent of all U.S. waterborne international trade, runs directly through the City from north to south.

Transportation

Metro Blue Line

The Metro Blue Line, L.A.’s first light rail transit system, runs 22 miles beginning at 7th Street in Downtown L.A., and passing through the communities of Vernon, Huntington Park, South Gate, and Watts before stopping at the Compton Civic Center station. The line’s second stop in Compton is at the industrial area behind the Crystal Park Hotel, off the 91 freeway, The Blue Line continues through Compton to Carson and finally ending in downtown Long Beach. The Metro Blue Line is operated and administered by the Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority. Transportation access for Long Beach Airport and the Los Angeles International Airport. Free automobile and motorcycle parking is available for Blue Line commuters at the Martin Luther King Jr. Transit Center.

Metro “C” Line

The Metro “C” Line (formally the Green Line) is a light rail line, running east-west through Los Angeles County, serving the communities of Norwalk, Downey, Lynwood, Watts, Inglewood, Lennox, El Segundo, Manhattan Beach and Redondo Beach. The Metro Green Line’s route begins west of Studebaker Road in Norwalk and travels for about 17 miles along the median of the Glenn Anderson (Century) Freeway (I-105). After the Aviation station, the line splits from the freeway structure at the Aviation station, where one can catch the free connecting LAX Shuttle to the airport terminals. The Green Line continues south along an exclusive elevated right-of-way, passing over El Segundo’s high-tech industrial complexes. The line ends its run at Marine Avenue in northeastern Redondo Beach. Ridership on MTA’s Metro Green Line hit an all-time high in 2014 when the light rail line had average weekday ridership is 36,100. The previous high watermark of 41,000 was reached in October 2000. The Green Line was planned to serve the airport, but budget problems and planning conflicts keep it from serving the airport today. However, a “North Coast Extension” is planned for the Green Line, which will allow trains to travel north into the LAX area, as incomplete “branches” can be seen extending north from the main right-of-way near the Aviation station. The airport is committed to build a people mover system (an airport tax to fund this has been in effect since 1993), which will directly connect the terminals to the LAX Transit Center at Parking Lot C. Here, a possible Green Line station could be built to interface with the people mover.

The Century 105 Freeway

The Century Freeway begins at Sepulveda Boulevard (California State Highway 1, the famous Pacific Coast Highway) on the southern edge of Los Angeles International Airport, adjacent to the city of El Segundo. It proceeds generally eastward from there on for 17 miles, crossing the Los Angeles and San Gabriel Rivers before terminating at the San Gabriel River (605) Freeway in western Norwalk. It is generally 8 lanes (3 general purpose lanes and one HOV lane each way), and the light rail transit Green Line and its stations run in the median. This light rail line is double-tracked and is by default completely grade-separated, and high speed. The station canopies have rather interesting designs. Unlike many of the earlier L.A. freeways that are at grade or are elevated above grade, I-105 is mostly depressed well below grade with a wide right-of-way and sloping earthen embankments. This was done to lessen the visual and sound impacts on the nearby communities. The multi-level interchanges at I-710 and I- 110 are not depressed. West of I-405, I-105 is on an elevated viaduct as it approaches LAX. Congressman Glenn M. Anderson (D-San Pedro) tirelessly advocated for the route’s construction, touting its possibilities for congestion relief along Century, Manchester, and Firestone Boulevards and the Imperial Highway; it has succeeded in these tasks, as well as relieving pressure on the Santa Monica (I-10) and San Diego (405) Freeways for travelers between downtown Los Angeles and LAX. After Anderson’s death in 1994, Cal-trans honored him by renaming the freeway in his honor. However, the name “Anderson Freeway” is seldom used except on maps; “Century Freeway” is still the most commonly used name.

The Alameda Transportation Corridor

The Alameda Transportation Corridor is a 20-mile freight rail expressway between the neighboring ports of Los Angeles and Long Beach and the transcontinental rail yards and railroad mainlines near downtown Los Angeles. The centerpiece is the Mid-Corridor-Trench, a below-ground railway that is 10 miles long, 30 feet deep and 50 feet wide. By consolidating 90 miles of branch rail lines into a high-speed expressway, the Alameda Corridor eliminated conflicts at more than 200 at-grade railroad crossings where cars and trucks previously had to wait for long freight trains to slowly pass. It also cut by more than half, to approximately 45 minutes, the time it takes to transport cargo containers by train between the ports and downtown Los Angeles. The Corridor travels through the center of the City.

Airport

The airport covers 77 acres extending west from Wilmington Avenue to Central Avenue, has a 3,322-foot runway and accommodations for almost 200 planes, either in hangars or tied down. Collectively, these multi – faceted transportation links lend justification to the City's familiar name "the Hub City."

Economic Development

This is an exciting time for Compton. The City is developing a wide range of economic and cultural opportunities that will help to make Compton a prime destination for residents and businesses. Economic development is among the highest priorities for the Compton City Council and City Staff. In addition, financial and technical assistance programs are available to help spur business growth while addressing important revitalization goals. Compton also provides various types of financial assistance for redevelopment projects and activities, including housing and commercial development.

Strategically located along the Alameda Corridor, a passageway of 25 percent of all U.S. waterborne international trade, Compton is surrounded by five freeways Interstate Highways 105, 110, 710, and 405, and State Highway 91. They outline the general boundaries of the City and provide superior access to destinations throughout the region. The Long Beach and Los Angeles Ports are less than 20 minutes from downtown Compton, providing easy access to International destinations for customers, suppliers and leisure travelers.

Compton is the place to grow a business!
